

The FCC has no right to stifle competition. I pay for XM radio and get greater use from the weather and traffic channel for DC than the local stations can provide. XM provides a more in depth and accurate accounting of traffic conditions and weather than any other local station. Do not take away a service that I pay specifically for.

Andrew Peak